About Shanghai Conservatory of Music

As the pioneer and incubator of professional music education in modern China, Shanghai Conservatory of Music (SHCM) has been widely reputed to be the “cradle of musicians” for its prestigious status in China’s music education.

The SHCM, formerly the National Conservatory of Music, was founded by Mr. Cai Yuanpei, who also served as its first president, and Dr. Hsiao Yiu-mei on November 27, 1927. It is the first independent music institution of higher education in China. With the strategic vision of developing Chinese music by learning from the West, the Conservatory has laid the basis for professional music education in China with its distinctive, multidisciplinary structure. In 1956, it became a key university under direct administration of the Ministry of Culture of the P.R. China and received its current name. Now it is jointly administered by the Ministry of Culture and Tourism of China and the Shanghai Municipal Government. In 2017 the SHCM was listed among the universities supported by the Double First-Class Initiative of China, and was selected as a member of Local High-level University Construction Scheme of Shanghai.

Since the founding of the P.R. China, Bei Wen, Meng Bo, Zhong Wangyang, Yang Jin, Jiang Mingdun, Liu Deyu, Xu Aizhu, Zhang Zhijing, Dong Jinping, Sang Xiufan, Lin Zaiyong and Xu Xu have successively served as the Secretary of the CPC Committee of SHCM. He Luting, Sang Tong, Jiang Mingdun, Yang Liqing, Xu Shuya, and Lin Zaiyong have successively served as presidents of the SHCM, which is currently under the leadership of Ms. Pei Xiaoqian, Secretary of the CPC Committee of SHCM, and President Liao Changyong. The Conservatory consists of over ten departments and divisions, including the Composition and Conducting Department, Musicology Department, Orchestral Instruments Department, Voice and Opera Department, Piano Department, Traditional Chinese Instruments Department, Music Education Department, Music Engineering Department, Arts Administration Department, Modern Instruments & Percussion Department, Musical Theatre Department, Digital Media Art School, School of Marxism, and the General Education Division. At present, the Conservatory has 2,841 full-time Chinese students and 75 international students, together with another 720 students studying at its affiliated secondary school and elementary section. There are 517 faculty and staff at the SHCM, among which 317 are full-time teachers.

Since its founding, the SHCM has been committed to its mission of training professional musical talent, cultivating the sense of beauty and harmony in Chinese people, and developing Chinese musical art by introducing Western music while carrying on excellent traditional Chinese music heritage. Guided by the motto of “Harmony, Determination, Dignity and Sincerity”, the Conservatory always stands at the forefront of musical art development with a view to serving the needs of our nation. It has made unremitting efforts to improve the system and mode of professional music education, playing a leading role in the progress of China’s professional music. Boasting its profound historical heritage and distinctive cultural traditions, it has nurtured several generations of outstanding Chinese music talent and incubated numerous masterpieces under the guidance of prestigious teachers, making remarkable contributions to China’s music education and cultural development cause.

As the first Chinese conservatory that has the authority to confer doctoral degree in three first-level disciplines including Musicology & Dancology, Art Theory and Drama & Film Studies, the SHCM takes great pride in its full-fledged, multidisciplinary music education system featuring an interconnected curriculum covering music creation, music performance, music theory and applied music. In the 4th round of disciplinary assessment by the Ministry of Education of the P.R. China in 2017, SHCM’s Musicology & Dancology program was rated A+, ranking No.1 in this discipline across the nation; its Art Theory program was ranked among the top 20% in China with a B+, and Drama & Film Studies the top 30% with a B. In the 1st national professional degree program evaluation in 2018, the SHCM won an A+ among Chinese art (music) universities. It has maintained its high ranking in the 5th round of disciplinary assessment in 2023. The Conservatory has developed a complete and integrated system that combines elementary, secondary and higher education, including programs for both undergraduate and graduate (Master and Doctorate) students, two postdoctoral mobile research stations, as well as an affiliated secondary school and an elementary section.

Fully committed to training high-caliber talent, following its long-established tradition of “emphasis on a solid foundation, stringency in teaching, and excellence in practice,” the SHCM has achieved significant success. Its achievements in music education have been marked by the numerous prestigious composers, music theorists, performing artists and music educators, such as Hsiao Yiu-mei, Huang Zi, He Luting, Tan Shuzhen, Wei Zhongle, Ding Shande, Qian Renkang, Ma Geshun, Zhou Xiaoyan, Hu Dengtiao, Gao Zhilan, Sang Tong, Caidan Zhuoma, Yu Li’na, and Liao Changyong, all of who represent the highest level of excellence in their respective eras. They have produced a series of far-reaching classics and national professional textbooks. Graduates of the SHCM have enjoyed successful careers, with many alumni becoming leading figures of the world’s major orchestras and music institutions. Since the beginning of China’s reform and opening-up in 1978, outstanding SHCM alumni, including Liao Changyong, Xu Shuya, Li Jian, Song Siheng, Huang Mengla, Yang Guang, Shen Yang, Sun Yingdi, Wang Zhijiong, Wang Jue, Yu Guanqun, Chen Musheng and Shen Ziyu, have won awards in various international music competitions and gain recognition worldwide, such as the International Singing Competition of Toulouse, Plácido Domingo’s Operalia, Besançon International Composition Competition, Marguerite LONG International Piano Competition, BBC Cardiff Singer of the World, International Violin Competition Premio Paganini, International Franz Liszt Piano Competition, Yehudi Menuhin International Competition for Young Violinists, International Tchaikovsky Competition for Young Musicians, and Lionel Tertis International Viola Competition. Awards in domestic music events, including the Chinese Golden Bell Award for Music, Wenhua Award, CCTV Music Competition, and the Best Work Award of the national cultural and artistic development project, also add luster to this prestigious institution.

Guided by the people-centered philosophy, the SHCM prides itself on its abundant musical accomplishments, which are deeply rooted in Chinese culture yet have an international influence. In recent years, several original works presented by the Conservatory, including symphonic pieces A Pursuit of Dream on the Silk Road, Ode to Ancient Emperors Yan and Huang, Bright Red Sun, and Capriccio Shikumen, operas He Luting, and A Love Ballad of Kangding, as well as musicals Music from the Sea, Dream Trip of Tang Xianzu, Spring in Shanghai 1949, and Loyalty, have won support from the China National Arts Fund, or have been selected by China Federation of Literary and Art Circles and China Musicians Association as demonstration performances. In addition, the SHCM has a number of major research projects that were approved as part of the National Social Science Fund of China Major Projects and the National Culture Innovation Program, along with a dozen of provincial and ministerial-level award-winning projects and works. Currently, the Conservatory organizes more than 400 art events and concerts every year, hosts the Shanghai Spring International Music Festival, and holds various concerts through world-class platforms in more than 20 countries.

The SHCM boasts multiple art creation and research centres and affiliated organizations, representing a perfect combination of education, performing and art creation. These include: Art of Music, a core academic journal; He Luting Advanced Research Institute for Chinese Music, an academic highland of Chinese music research; SHCM Library with abundant historical literature and document collections; a music research institute with a flexible structure; Shanghai Conservatory of Music Press which has published many high-level academic achievements; the Oriental Musical Instrument Museum which serves as the National Education Base for Ethnic Unity and Progress; the Shanghai Music and Art Development Collaborative Innovation Center, a cultural achievement incubation and social service platform; and the world-class Shangyin Opera House that features a state-of-art acoustic system.

A member of the Association Européenne des Conservatoires, Académies de Musique et Musikhochschulen (AEC), and the Pacific Alliance of Music Schools, the SHCM has reached strategic cooperation with 33 world's top music schools in more than 20 countries and regions, including Juilliard School, Curtis Institute of Music, Berklee College of Music (BCM), Yale School of Music, Royal College of Music (RCM), University of Music and Performing Arts Vienna, Hamburg University of Music and Theatre, Paris National Superior Conservatory for Music and Dance, and Moscow State Tchaikovsky Conservatory. On the basis of its intimate partnerships with 11 music institutions, the SHCM has established the SHCM-RCM Joint Institute, SHCM-BCM Contemporary Music Institute, and a Joint Program for Advanced Performer Certificate between SHCM and Hamburg University of Music and Drama, as well as the SHCM International Chamber Music Center. In addition, the Conservatory has successfully held several international academic and industry events, such as the 42nd World Congress of the International Council for Traditional Music (ICTM), and the 43rd International Computer Music Conference (ICMC).

The Conservatory has engaged many renowned international musicians as its honorary or guest professors, including composers Bright Sheng, Tristan Murail, Tan Dun, Chen Qigang, Chen Xiaoyong; conductors Simon Rattle, Seiji Ozawa; violinists Pinchas Zukerman, Itzak Perlman, Vadim Repin, Midori Gotō, Ning Feng; pianists Leon Fleisher, Fou Ts'ong; cellists Yo-Yo Ma, Misha Maisky, Qin Liwei; and vocal singer Renée Fleming.

On November 27, 2017, the SHCM, together with 15 world-class music institutions from 13 countries and regions including the USA and the UK, and 10 conservatories in China, released the Indicators for International Discipline Assessment of Musicology & Dancology, and signed the Shanghai Consensus on Music Education of Excellence, providing a Chinese resolution in setting the standards for global music discipline evaluation.

Currently, guided by Xi Jinping Thought on Socialism with Chinese Characteristics for a New Era, the SHCM will earnestly implement the spirit of the 20th CPC National Congress, and Xi Jinping's important speech during his inspection tour in Shanghai, as well as his ideas and philosophy on party building, education and cultural development. Wholeheartedly committed to delivering top-quality music education in line with the highest standards, the Conservatory will continue efforts to build itself into a leader of higher music education in China, a vanguard of China's cultural power strategy, a major contributor to the Shanghai Culture brand, the pillar of the music alliance in the Yangtze River Delta Region, and a role model of international cultural and artistic exchanges. The SHCM will be steadfast in its mission to educate and train future-oriented, well-rounded art talent with international vision and moral and artistic excellence, while striving to become one of the world's best conservatories with distinctive Chinese characteristics and international prominence.
